DANIEL BUDISH

PROJECT DEVELOPER

Cornell University

Daniel is the President of Gaslamp Capital, a historic tax credit consulting firm founded in 2015. He holds degrees in urban planning and city design from Cornell University and The London School of Economics.

Daniel has dedicated his career to renovating and preserving historic buildings across the country through the implementation of innovative financing structures. As a native Clevelander he has long thought about how he could best utilize his skills in tax credit finance to benefit the LGBTQ community.

This project is a dream come true for Daniel due to its combination of historic preservation, its intense focus on philanthropy, community development, and of course - all the drag.
